DETAILED ACTION

Remarks

1. The amendment filed on August 17, 2004 has been received and entered. Claims 1-10 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Niwa et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,987,460) in view of Nielson (U.S. Patent No. 5,970,492).

As to claims 1, and 6, Niwa et al. discloses an information retrieval apparatus for performing information retrieval from an information source (See figure 21B), said information retrieval apparatus comprising:

input means in which a selective inputting operation is performed (See figure 21B, 1', shows "input devices"); database-access-interface means which accesses a database as said information source for retrieving information in response to a use of said input means (See column 3, lines 61-67, and see column 4, lines 1-36);

display means for displaying, in a form of an information bar, information that is obtained by accessing said database by said database-access-interface means (See column 6, lines 34-66);

cursor moving means for moving a cursor in response to the use of said input means in order to designate a position in a lengthwise direction of the information bar displayed by said display means (See column 18, lines 38-57, also see column 8, lines 1-21, and see column 7, lines 29-59); and retrieval means for retrieving information corresponding to the designated lengthwise position from said database by using said database-access-interface means (See column 7, lines 1-66, also see column 14, lines 23-53, also see column 21, lines 19-54), wherein the retrieved information is displayed on said display means (See column 14, lines 23-53).

Niwa et al. does not teach from a plurality of databases including first and second dictionaries.

Nielson teaches from a plurality of databases including first and second dictionaries (See Nielson column 6, lines 8-41).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Niwa et al. to include from a plurality of databases including first and second dictionaries.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Niwa et al. by the teaching of Nielson to include from a plurality of databases including first and second dictionaries because it provides for more efficient results and better more accurate sources of information for results retrieval.

As to claims 2, and 7, Niwa et al. as modified discloses wherein lengthwise sections of the displayed information bar each have index-item information (See column 5, lines 18-56, also see column 4, lines 1-19); and said display means displays the index-item information corresponding to one lengthwise section in which a position in the lengthwise direction of the displayed information bar is designated by using said cursor moving means (See column 7, lines 29-67, and see column 8, lines 1-28).

As to claims 3, and 8, Niwa et al. as modified discloses further comprising a built-in database accessed by said database-access-interface means (See column 4, lines 1-19).

As to claims 4, and 9, Niwa et al. as modified discloses wherein said database-access-interface means accesses a database outside said information retrieval apparatus (See column 19, lines 1-35).

As to claims 5, and 10, Niwa et al. as modified discloses wherein said database-access-interface means uses a network to access a database outside said information retrieval apparatus (See column 19, lines 14-65).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Morimoto et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,789,057 B1) teaches first and second dictionaries stored in a database server.
